

MICHAEL CLARK COMPANY

Job Description

The job description covers the scope of the role, but responsibilities may include any other reasonable tasks not mentioned in this job description, but associated with the job.

Job Title: Freelance Lighting Technician

Responsible to: Production Manager, Lighting Designer

Background

Michael Clark Company is a leading British contemporary Dance Company, presenting the works of the choreographer Michael Clark in the UK and internationally. The Company is an Associate Artist of the Barbican Centre and is supported by Arts Council of England and a range of international producers. Michael Clark is known for iconic collaborations with visual artists, musicians and designers including Charles Atlas, Sarah Lucas, Jarvis Cocker, Scritti Politti and others, as well as having links to galleries and museums, such as Tate Modern and the Whitney Museum of American Art.

To help deliver Michael Clark's vision, the Company is seeking a freelance lighting technician to work alongside the technical team. In the initial stages he or she will learn the show and subsequently be responsible for re-lighting in medium to large in-house on tour and operating the show. The successful candidate must be a team player in a company of highly individual artists.

The company will be touring UK and Belgium in spring, Europe in the summer and USA in the autumn. Dates are flexible if agreed in advance with the Production Manager.

The Company is based in London so the successful candidate must be willing to travel to London when requested, and the Company is unable to cover any additional travel costs associated with being based outside London.
